

THE THINGS THAT WE GUYS DO, BUT NEVER LEARN.

Dumisani Hlophe

I am so sure that guys will crucify me for this article. But I will say it anyway. This article states some of the tendencies that we guys do and end up with egg on our faces.

We have a tendency of getting carried away by the voice of a woman over a phone. We fall all over our selves just from hearing a beautiful voice on the phone. This is the voice of a woman that as a matter of fact we have not met. But then, we will picture as the most beautiful woman. We will, in our heads, see her sexually, and romantically. We assign to the voice over the phone, the physical image that is strictly in our heads. In our heads, the woman's voice over the phone belongs to a stunning, beautiful, and sexy woman. Some of these voices we come across them through calling centres. Alternatively, it could be a wrong call. In most cases, we pursue the owner of this beautiful voice for a meeting. Very often, when we meet her, she does not share the stunning looks that we have created in our heads as guys. She is more than often, ugly, shapeless, and much older than we had anticipated. Then as guys, we have an option, we can admit to her that yes indeed 'I am the guy that you have been talking to over the phone', or we just deny it at all. And of course, we run for dear life.

Then we also fall for cute faces of women sitting behind a counter. Quite often, women sitting behind a counter have stunning and cute faces. They wear tight bras. These bras push their breasts up. And the blouse opens slightly showing a very beautiful chest area. So, for us guys, the cute face and the adjusted breasts look so stunning and we rush to assume that this woman is completely beautiful from head to toe. So, we start putting our case. We ask her out. We seek to date her. If she does not have a car, we will offer to pick her up when she knocks off. And that is when the problem begins. As she approaches the car, suddenly we realize that the beauty was limited to the face and the breasts. The rest of the body is just something else. At this point, we can run away. We have spoken to her, and she knows the guy as much as needs to. So, as guys we put up a brave face, and play along. The worst part is that poor woman may actually fall in love, when he guy looks for every opportunity to disappear. After partying on a faked high note by the guy, he will delete her numbers, never call her again, nor take her calls. She will call several times, and soon we give up.

Then there is a situation where we meet some woman. She is beautiful and appealing to the eye. Through sheer luck, a relationship starts. Then she makes the cardinal mistake of introducing the guy to her friends. She is so happy with her new boyfriend that she wants her friends to meet Mr. Nice guy. As it turns out, the guy gets hooked into her new girlfriend's friend. He finds them more attractive than his own. He curses himself that he should have waited till he met these other girls before making a move onto his one. But the fact is, even if it was another girl from the same group of friends, he would have later also been interested onto his current girlfriend. The worse part here, is that boyfriend will start to charm his woman as a self marketing move to other chicks. He will speak well and highly and charmingly to his woman. He will make sure that others hear that he is a cool chap. At some point, the friends will alert the girlfriend that the guy is pursuing her friend. This really does cut the guy to size. However, in most cases, girls prefer to remain quiet about the whole situation.

Now this one is rather hectic. Most of us guys we feel that we are sexually the real machos in bed when we are drunk. We feel sexy, romantic and that we are simply the best in bed. All of this has no proof except for our ego and alcohol. Unfortunately, when we get to the stage with the lady, we just fall asleep. No performance at all. And in most cases, we snore when we are drunk. Something that annoys many women. The worst part is when we wake up sober in the morning, and want to do what we ought to have done the previous night. Only to find that the lady is not longer interested. In fact, she is disappointed and wants nothing to do with the guy.

Then we also bump onto these women on facebook. They put up profile pictures taken about five years ago when they were stunning and sexy. So we start chatting on facebook, and soon we arrange to meet. As they meet, the woman looks nothing of the sexy picture on facebook. In fact, she is unrecognizable. Once again, the guy starts to deny that he is who he is.

There are many more of these lessons. But guess what, we will keep doing it. Don't ask me why for I have no idea whatsoever. But as they say: a man's major weakness is a woman!

@ www.kunjalo.co.za all rights reserved.